

Michael Roberts

Senior Vice President

Crowley Maritime Corp., Jacksonville, Florida

Based in Washington, D.C., and Jacksonville, Roberts is a member of the company's senior leadership team. He has held legal and executive responsibilities with Crowley since 1991.

Roberts currently handles Crowley's government relations responsibilities including support for the company's government contracting business. He has regular contact with Members of the House and Senate, senior executive branch officials, media and others involved in the maritime and logistics industry. Roberts has testified several times before Congress concerning the American maritime industry. In his previous role as General Counsel, Roberts handled the legal affairs of the company and provided senior leadership for the development of a separate insurance line of business and the Crowley Cares charitable foundation.

In January 2020, Roberts became President of the American Maritime Partnership, which supports the American domestic maritime industry and is the largest U.S. maritime coalition ever assembled. Roberts also helped organize the Florida Maritime Partnership and is active in other organizations supporting the transportation industry.

Crowley is a leading American maritime and logistics company. Founded in 1892, the company remains privately held and today has more than 6,000 employees and $2Bn in annual revenue. It employs more American mariners and has invested more in U.S.-built ships than any other company. Operating subsidiaries include Crowley Logistics (domestic and international shipping and logistics services primarily in Caribbean / Central America markets); Crowley Shipping (domestic petroleum transportation, harbor assist, ship management, design and engineering, and offshore services); Crowley Fuels (fuel and LNG storage and distribution); and Crowley Solutions (government and military services).

